SUMMARY

I've always been interested in problem solving, a team player, and a budding technophile with a small obsession towards mobile devices.

I truly believe in Improving as team vs individual growth.

I'm never shy to accept my lack of knowledge, I found out that the more you say "I don't know" the more opportunities you get to learn new things.

My interest in data science emerged when I was told to predict a customer's loan default chances from a bank data repository for my graduate Analytics project.

Ever since I've been bouncing around in Analytics related roles such as Business Intelligence developer, Analytics Engineer, Data Engineer and some research adjacent roles.

I'm not looking to have a piece of the Data Science pie, I wish to taste the whole thing.

I'm familiar with a variety of tools, including Qlik, PowerBi, Python, Snowflake, and MsSQL but I'm adding new skills to my library whenever I can.
